College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. The coronavirus pandemic — and more like a celebration of the return to normal circumstances — though by any measure it was — though by any measure it was

Vergennes-area towns eye use of pandemic funding

By ANDY KIRKALDY

Vergennes-area towns are beginning to look how to use the collective total of $1.9 trillion in American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding. The funds, which apply to rural Vermont communities — which apply to rural Vermont communities — must use it by 2026. In general, federal guidelines — not all of which apply to rural Vermont communities — state the funding can:

1. Address negative economic impacts
2. Support public health expenditures, by providing premium pay for essential public health and safety staff; and lives — by her own admission

40 years on, Lawrence leaves FCS

All about the kids for school staffer

By ANDY KIRKALDY

FERRISBURGH — When Ferrisburgh Central School students have arrived almost every morning over the past 40 years, a familiar face has greeted them — FCS administrative assistant Loretta Lawrence.

Vergennes-area towns eye use of pandemic funding

By ANDY KIRKALDY

Atlantic Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding.

7 women, 7 years, mission accomplished

Yarn & Yoga bids farewell to Bristol, paves the way for a new generation

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

BRISTOL — After a seven-year run, the seven women partners who founded Yarn & Yoga and built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown

40 years on, Lawrence leaves FCS

All about the kids for school staffer

By ANDY KIRKALDY

FERRISBURGH — When Ferrisburgh Central School students have arrived almost every morning over the past 40 years, a familiar face has greeted them — FCS administrative assistant Loretta Lawrence.

Vergennes-area towns eye use of pandemic funding

By ANDY KIRKALDY

Atlantic Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) funding.

7 women, 7 years, mission accomplished

Yarn & Yoga bids farewell to Bristol, paves the way for a new generation

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

BRISTOL — After a seven-year run, the seven women partners who founded Yarn & Yoga and built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.

College caps ‘watershed’ year

By CHRISTOPHER ROSS

MIDDLEBURY — One of the most remarkable things about Middlebury College’s 2021 Commencement was the crowd. A city sewer system built it into a vital downtown Bristol business and community hub are passing the torch to a new generation.
If you’re not sleeping, maybe you’re doing it wrong.

Simmons Beautyrest are designed to bring you better quality sleep - so you’ll have more energy the next day.

Free Fishing Day is June 12

MONTPELIER — Vermont’s annual statewide Summer Free Fishing Day is Saturday, June 12, which will also be opening day of the regular bass fishing season.

“Vermont’s Free Fishing Day gives anglers the opportunity to go fishing without a license for one day in Vermont lakes and streams,” said Fish and Wildlife Director Chris Lister. “Losers! Fishing is an activity that can be shared with family or instantly taught to a group within an enjoyable quality time together.”

Regulations will also go into effect June 12, marking the start of some of the hottest bass fishing action of the Northeast. Heidi Lacey, executive director of the Vermont Fish and Wildlife Department urged Vermonters to capitalize on an available and once again FREE FISHING BASICS section for new anglers.

The “2021 Fishing Guide & Regulations” book is available for free from license agents, and an online version can be accessed at fishandwildlife.com.